Special Notice!

The business of the Jackson Standard, including its stock, fixtures and good will, has this day been sold to the Jackson Standard Company.

All the business of the office up to this date will be settled by J. H. Mackley, and all the business from and after this date, including the collection of unpaid subscriptions, by the purchasers.

THE JACKSON STANDARD CO.,
By R. U. WILSON, Mgr.
JACKSON, O., June 13, 1888.

JACKSON STANDARD-JOURNAL.

About July 26th the Standard and Journal will be consolidated and will thereafter be published as an eight page, six column quarto.

The Standard-Journal will be under the editorial and business management of Messrs. J. M. Lively and Thos. C. Gerken.

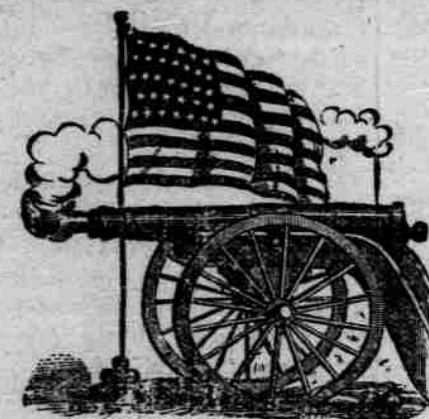

It will be Republican in politics, and will do what it can, within the circle of its influence, for the success of its party. While giving the general news, special attention will be given to home and local affairs, and it will be made the best paper ever published in the county.

All payments on subscription to either paper, where subscribers are in arrears, will be credited at the old rate of $1.00 per year. All payments on and after this date in advance will be credited at the rate of $1.50 per year. Subscribers to the Standard or the Journal, whose subscriptions are paid in advance, will receive the Standard-Journal to the date to which they have paid for the paper to which they are now a subscriber.

Terms:—$1.50 per year in advance. Now is the time to subscribe.

It will be by far the best advertising medium in the county. We are ready to contract for advertising space, and those who first apply will have choice of location.

THE STANDARD-JOURNAL CO.

There will be a meeting at the Court House, Thursday evening, July 19, to form a Harrison and Morton Club. Let everybody come. There will be music and speeches.

By order of the Committee:

J. M. LIVELY,
D. E. PHILLIPS,
S. C. LONGWORTH.

Join the Republican Club.

Every Republican in the County ought to belong to some Republican Club.

Come out to the meeting Thursday night. If you can't make a speech you can yell for Harrison and Morton.

Joe Shinn, who was nominated for Congress by the Democratic Convention on last Friday, will have to Shinn out from beating him by five thousand majority.

The Republicans of Middleport opened the campaign on Saturday night by a meeting of five hundred people, at the Court House.

The speakers were C. C. Shayne, of New York, and Major Russell, of Middleport. Both have been life-long Democrats until the announcement of the Democratic platform, endorsing the Mills tariff bill, when they both severed their connection with the party.

The Democratic Convention held here last Friday nominated the Hon. Joseph W. Shinn, of Adams County, for Member of Congress. Mr. Shinn is said to be a fair sort of Democrat, now representing Adams County in the Legislature, and if there is anything in a name he ought to be able to run a little. There are two reports about as to the Convention, one that it was held in G. David's buggy, and that three persons were present; the other that it was held at the town house, on the corner of Pearl and Portsmouth, and that about twenty were present, all but a half dozen being local statesmen, the latter report probably being the correct one.

In addition to naming Mr. Shinn for Congress, the Hon. Irvine Dungan, of Jackson, was nominated for Presidential Elector. We have no especial interest in Mr. Shinn, but since the Democrats are in power in a good many nice places, we are sorry that Mr. Dungan's recognition is not of a more substantial sort, than the nomination for a position there is not a ghost of a show for getting.

"BRAVE BEN HARRISON"

BY J. H. MACKLEY.

[At—"John Brown's Body"]

I bear a shout of triumph from a million loyal souls.

Across the startled continent its mighty thunder rolls—

The East proclaims his praises and the growing West extols

Our brave Ben Harrison.

Chorus—Glory, glory, hallelujah,
Glory, glory, hallelujah,
Glory, glory, hallelujah,
Our Ben is marching on.

Like a distant murmur, rising from the sunny Southern field,

Like a tempest from the Northland—with its shining lake congenial—

It gathers its magnitude—a Nation's love revealed,
For brave Ben Harrison.

Chorus—

Among the Buckeye hills-tops, see the red bandana wave,

It is floating as a danger sign beside a yawning grave—

While the loyal winds are whispering the story of the brave—

Our own Ben Harrison.

Chorus—

John Bull is loudly singing of the beauties of free trade,

The other one, at Washington, sits idly in the shade,

Oh, wouldn't we give that animal a lively escape!

With brave Ben Harrison?

Chorus—

In the ideal of next November you shall hear our hearty cheer,

When the waddling ponderosity of Grover disappears—

We will sing a song of triumph o'er the rebel Brigadier,

With brave Ben Harrison.

Chorus—

JACKSON, OHIO.

Let everybody turn out to the meeting Thursday night.

STRAIGHT GOODS.

The Chronicles of Benjamin and Levi.

And it came to pass in the fourth year of the reign of Grover, the hangman, that there assembled in the great metropolis of the West the wise men of the land who were opposed to his reign to take counsel for his overthrow.

And for six days did these wise men sit in council and deliberate, for there were divisions among them as to who should be the successor of Grover, the hangman.

Some there were among them who favored John, the Shermanite, others Walter, the Greshamite, others again were for James, from the land of Maine, some for the statesman from the land of York, others for the sage from the land of Michigan, some shouted for William, the Allisonite, and still others whose voices were raised in favor of Benjamin, the Harrisonite, from the land of the Hoosiers.

On the third day there stood up among the assemblage some of the wise men and sang psalms of praise for their favorites, and when the evening came they separated.

And on the next day the wise men again assembled themselves together, and they began to cast lots as to whom among them should lead the hosts in the battle for the overthrow of Grover, the hangman.

And thence did they cast lots and the choice fell on no one, on account of the divisions among them.

Likewise did they twice cast lots on the fifth day, and yet there was no choice.

Then did the wise men counsel together, and the next day being the Sabbath, they separated until the second day of the week.

And when they again assembled on that day the casting of lots was resumed, and when they cast lots for the third time, behold the choice fell upon Benjamin, the Harrisonite, from the land of the Hoosiers.

And there was great rejoicing among the wise men, even to the waving of flags and banners, with shouting and clapping of hands.

And then again did they cast lots as to whom among them should be second in command to take the place of Benjamin in case of his death.

And the lot fell upon Levi, the Mortovite, from the land of York.

And forthwith there went up from the wise men a mighty shout of triumph, which spread to all the inhabitants of the land.

For with Benjamin and Levi as the chief captains to lead them, the inhabitants saw that the days of Grover, the hangman, were numbered.

And when Grover, the hangman, and Thurman, the Copperhead, heard this they were sore afraid, and bowed their heads in grief, for they saw the handwriting on the wall, as in the days of Nebuchadnezzar, "Thou art weighed in the balance and found wanting."

And they sought counsel from their brethren of the Southland.

And the Brigadiers of the Southland came and spoke unto Grover, the hangman, and Thurman, the Copperhead, saying:

Fear not, for as in the days of our distress ye gave us aid and comfort, so now we in turn lay at your feet the Solid South.

And Grover, the hangman, and Thurman, the Copperhead, drew forth their red bandanas and wiped the tears from their eyes.

And again do they offer battle, having taken courage from the offer of gold and silver from the land of free trade across the mighty ocean.

But it will avail them nothing, for the inhabitants of the land have buckled on the armor for protection, and under their chosen captains, Benjamin and Levi, they have entered upon a triumphant march, and when the days of November, being the eleventh month of the year, come, Grover, the hangman, will be hurled from his throne.

For the people have declared that he shall no longer rule over them.

And on the fourth day of the third month of the coming year it shall come to pass that Grover, the hangman, shall be short of his power and retired to the quiet shades of the city from whence he came, and Benjamin, the Harrisonite, will reign in his stead. Selah.

Clerk's Report.

Clerk of Courts Williams has made his annual report to the Secretary of State, from which we gather the following facts:

There were eleven suits for divorce pending July 1, 1887. Fifteen suits for divorce were brought during the year, two for adultery, six for absence and neglect, three for cruelty, and two for miscellaneous causes. Of the above, twenty-two cases were decided, decrees being granted in five cases for adultery, eleven for absence and neglect, four for cruelty, and two for miscellaneous causes. Of these twenty-six cases, decided and pending, nine were brought by the husband and seventeen by the wife.

The amount of fines assessed for crimes against the person was $131, and the total costs taxed $1637.34. The amount of fines taxed for crimes against property $46.50, and the total costs taxed $644.84. The amount of fines taxed for all other offenses $222, and the total costs taxed $580.74.

The total number of civil judgments rendered was 128, 101 of the number being for money only, 27 in which money was included other than the above. The total amount adjudged due was $208,625.74.

The number of final decrees entered was 37.

Indictments were found during the year as follows: Rape, 3; robbery, 2; assault with intent to kill, 7; assault and battery, 1; murder in the first degree, 1; burglary, 2; grand larceny, 5; petit larceny, 6; horse stealing, 1; forgery, 1; all other crimes against property, 5. Indictments for offenses against public peace, public health, public safety and morality, were found as follows: Carrying concealed weapons, 2; all other offenses against public peace, 4; perjury and subornation of perjury, 3; gambling, 1; offenses against jury laws, 10; adultery, 1; keeping a disorderly house, 1; common law labor on Sunday, 1; other offenses, 6.

As a result of the above indictments, seven persons were sentenced to the penitentiary, one for murder, four for burglary, one for horse stealing, one for forgery, eight confined in the Cincinnati Work House, and five in the County Jail.

The total number of inquests held by the Coroner was nine, as follows: homicide, 1; accident, 5; cause unknown or natural, 3. Of the above number, one was superinduced by intemperance.

The County Auditor paid out on the certificate of the Clerk $240 counsel fees to attorneys defending indigent criminals.

At the last examination of teachers, July 6th and 7th, there were 36 applicants, 23 of whom received certificates, as follows:

For one year—Albert E. Arthur, Anna Church, Lida C. Carr, Etta L. Francis, Viola Gillilan, A. J. Gahn, A. J. Hartson, J. H. Jenkins, J. R. Jacobs, A. H. Karn, F. E. C. Kirkendall, Etta L. Musgrove, W. J. F. Neal, Lizzie Nelson, C. W. Patterson.

A Bad Spell.

A merchant's clerk wrote a check for forty dollars, and spelled the numerical adjective "40-u-r-ly." His employer directed his attention to the error, with the remark, "you seem to have a bad spell this morning," to which the clerk replied, "sure enough; I've left out the 'u'." Let us hope the clerk will still further amend his orthography, meanwhile, if any suffer from a "bad spell" of headache, superinduced by constipation, ask your druggist for Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. Entirely vegetable, mild, prompt and effective, and a most efficient remedy for derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels.
